Working with NHS Trusts across North and East Yorkshire and Northern Lincolnshire

JOB DESCRIPTION

POST

Foundation Year 1 in Orthopaedics

TRUST

York Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust

LOCATION

York Hospital

INFORMATION REGARDING THE HOSPITAL

York Hospitals NHS Trust has an annual budget of c£140 million. It employs approximately 4,000 staff and services an extended population of over 300,000. Its main income is currently derived from North Yorkshire and York Primary Care Trust. In April 2007 the Trust was licensed to operate as a foundation trust – a status which will assist in the continued development and enhancement of services for our population.

York Hospital, which opened in 1976, is a well-equipped, modern unit of 718 beds. The hospital has recently undergone major redevelopment of its surgical facilities increasing theatre, day unit and short stay capacity. Other developments include a combined Haematology and Oncology Outpatient Centre, a new integrated breast unit, a vascular imaging unit and new Head and Neck outpatient and treatment facilities. Future developments include an improved and more efficient inpatient facility.

Included in the comprehensive range of acute services provided on this site is a 58-bedded maternity unit, a ten bedded critical care unit (including four high dependency beds) and an eight-bedded coronary care unit and an accident and emergency department.

York Hospital is part of the joint undergraduate Hull and York Medical School with partners the University of York, University of Hull and Hull and East Yorkshire Hospitals NHS Trust. The first students commenced in September 2003 and follow a five-year curriculum, which makes strong use of problem based learning techniques. The new Gillespie Building, built at the hospital, provides new and improved teaching facilities for undergraduate students. This building also houses a comprehensive research and development function that provides a service across North Yorkshire.
